

Joseph W. Holdrieth, Jr., CPA

Treasurer; Vice President of Accounting and Auditing

Business Accomplishments

After four years with Ernst & Young, one of the nation's largest accounting firms, Joseph Holdrieth, Jr., co-founded one of the entities that eventually evolved into Norman, Jones, Enlow & Co. Today, he lends his expertise to many of the firm's departments, including the Accounting & Auditing Group, Tax Division, and Family Business Group. Joe is also a member of many NJE committees, including the Executive, Scheduling, Continuing Education, and Quality Control Committees.

Over the course of more than 40 years in the industry, Joe has assisted with the financial growth of a wide range of privately held businesses, uniquely qualifying him for his leadership posts in the firm. He has been involved with audits for a diverse array of clients, including public entities, manufacturers, and service providers. He has also worked with clients in industries ranging from multi-location restaurants to distribution, manufacturing, and construction firms, advising clients on central issues including profitability and strategic planning. Joe maintains special expertise in the areas of auditing, taxation, and management consulting, enabling him to integrate comprehensive services for the benefit of privately held and family-owned businesses.

Joe is a 1969 graduate of Ohio University.
